

"YOUNG MEN FOR WAR."

The Democratic Victory in Iowa Not the Work of the Old War Horses.

Nearly all the Workers in the Campaign Men Under 35
Years of Age.

Senator Allison Much Worried Over the Chance of His Being Defeated
For the Senate.

It is the general feeling among the clear-headed men in Iowa that this election is the beginning of the downfall of the republican rule in this state, says a Des Moines, Iowa, despatch. Thirty-four years of continued control has debauched that party until it was run by a ring at Des Moines, which not only resulted in much profit to its members, but dictated nominations in the state. Hutchinson's nomination for governor was the work of the same ring, and the result of it has gone into history. On the liquor question the party is in a sad quandary. Its last platform announced that prohibition is "the settled policy of the state," and promised that its candidates, if elected, would enforce it. Last Tuesday proved that prohibition is not the settled policy of the state and a majority of the voters of the state are opposed to it. If the republican party sticks by prohibition it will of necessity continue in a minority. If it throws prohibition overboard it will have to stand the loss of the prohibitionists who would at once organize a rigid party of their own, while it could not hope to get back any large proportion of the votes which this fall went into the democratic camp. Besides all this the tariff question is becoming more and more troublesome to the republican party in Iowa. The injury which a high tariff does to the state is daily becoming apparent and republicans who are opposed to the policy of the national republican party on the tariff question are slowly but steadily drifting into the democratic ranks. As a rule the young men are democrats. While the old men can see as clearly as they how a high tariff and a protection law is injuring the state, yet the younger generation is not bound to use party by old associations, as their fathers are, and they are thus the more easily led where their interests lie. It was a noticeable thing in the campaign just closed that, while the republicans workers were in the main old men, the democratic ones were young, and it was no uncommon instance to see father and son at the same polling place and hard at work for different parties. In the rooms of the democratic state committee at Des Moines election night were several members who had been born since the last democratic governor served in Iowa, and of the entire body there was only one who was old enough to have known him, and throughout the state it was the rule, with comparatively few exceptions, that the democratic workers, members of state, county and city committees, the men who were at the head of the party organization, were the young men and more of them were under than over thirty-five years of age. The victory last Tuesday was an exemplification of the adage "Old men for council, young men for war."

Senator Allison is anxious. He took a late train out of Dubuque Wednesday night and reached Des Moines early this morning. He went direct to the Savoy hotel and was assigned to a parlor. Before going to breakfast he sent a messenger for Chapman Pray, who obeyed the summons and repaired to Allison's rooms without waiting for breakfast, and the two were closeted for a couple of hours. The news that Allison was in town spread rapidly, and soon there was a number of callers, all more or less interested in hearing what the Dubuque senator knew and how he felt. It didn't take long to learn that on the question of the completion of the Des Moines canal, very little and that as to the final result he was uncertain. There are quite a number of very close districts which in all probability will require the official canvass to finally determine whether the republican or democratic candidate is elected. The republican managers have revised their figures, and that revision gives them fifty-one members of the house, the democrats forty-nine, and twenty-seven senators to the democratic twenty-three, or a majority of three on joint ballot. The official returns may change this, but if they do not the predicament the party will be in when it comes to enacting legislation that partakes of a partisan nature will be realized at once. After the organization of the house and the inauguration of Governor Boies, the first important act will be the election of a United States senator. It requires seventy-six votes to do this, granting all their present claims. But among these are several recalcitrants who cannot under any circumstances be coaxed or bulldozed into voting for Allison's re-election. The party has been hoaxed high into debt and can expect no sign of recovery until it throws off Allison, the greatest boss of all. This is very likely to do this winter. There is no doubt that the assembling of the next legislature will mark the beginning of the most notable senatorial contest in the history of the state. It is believed that Senator Finn and Representative Paschal, who bolted the republican caucus nomination two years ago are both re-elected. They are pronounced anti-Allison and their votes would defeat Allison if cast with the democrats for Major Anderson, who is already talked of for the place.

It is astonishing how rapidly the feeble and debilitated gain strength and vigor when taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For what are called "broken-down constitutions," nothing else has proved so effective as this powerful and perfectly safe medicine.

Begg's Cherry Cough Syrup.
Is giving splendid satisfaction to the trade and the sales are positively marvelous, which can be accounted for in no other way except that it is without doubt the best on the market. Ask for and be sure you get the genuine. We keep it, R. S. Hale & Co., Druggists.

Croup Can Be Prevented.
We want every mother to know that croup can be prevented. There is no question about this; as it has been done in thousands of cases, and you may depend upon it that when a child takes the croup, it is wholly owing to the negligence of its parents. True croup never appears without due and timely warning; a few hours, or a day or two before the attack, the child becomes hoarse. This hoarseness is the first indication of croup, and is a sure sign that croup is to follow, unless promptly and properly treated. The free use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as directed with each bottle, under the heading "to prevent croup," will dispel all symptoms of the disease. The first sign of croup, hoarseness, may be overlooked by young mothers or those not familiar with the disease. Under such circumstances, or when not properly treated, the hoarseness becomes more marked and the child shows symptoms of having taken cold, then a peculiar rough cough is developed. Even at this stage Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will prevent the croup, but after the cough has developed, the croup is liable to appear at any moment. The proper way, is to keep a bottle of this remedy at hand. It costs but fifty cents, and only a few doses, or, at most, not over one-third of a bottle is required to dispel all symptoms of the disease. Can you afford to risk so much for so little? There is not the least danger in giving this remedy in large and frequent doses, which are always required, as it contains no injurious substance. As proof of this fact, we refer to Mr. John L. Olson of Des Moines, Ia., whose 10-months-old boy drank the entire contents of a fifty-cent bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without the least injury. For sale by H. M. Parthen & Co.

Woman's Discovery.
"Another wonderful discovery has been made, and that, too, by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking the first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hamrick & Co. of Shelby, N. C. Get a free trial bottle at R. S. Hale & Co.'s drug store.

There was a terrible epidemic of dysentery and bloody flux in Pope county, Illinois, last summer. As many as five deaths occurred in one day. Messrs. Walter Brothers, of Waltersburg, sold over 380 bottles of Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy during this epidemic, and say they never heard of its failing in any case when the directions were followed. It was the only medicine used that did cure the worst cases. Many persons were cured by it after the doctors had given them up. Twenty-five and 50-cent bottles for sale by H. M. Parthen & Co.

For chapped hands, roughness of the skin, pimples or blotches of any kind on the face or other parts of the body, apply Cuticura Specific. It works like magic and is warranted by druggists. Sold by R. S. Hale & Co., wholesale and retail druggists, Helena.
